

Will Quench That Thirst

Look for the Trade-Mark

KEALOHA CASE IS OPENED IN SUPREME COURT

For two hours this morning the supreme court listened to arguments in the preliminary skirmish of the Kealoa impeachment proceedings, adjournment being taken at noon until 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning with the probability that the question at issue now will go to the court at noon of that day.

John Kealoa, the supervisor under fire, was present in court throughout today's discussion, but expects to leave for Hilo this afternoon and to remain there until next Saturday. He likely will not be present to hear the court's ruling on the question under consideration.

His counsel, C. H. McBride, is contending, as has already been published, that the form of the petition asking impeachment is improper, both because it combines three separate petitions and because a number of the signers have confessed they did not know the contents of the documents when they attached their names to the papers.

McBride admits that if his plea in abatement is granted it does not necessarily mean that the impeachment is brought to an end, or that Kealoa is cleared of the charges made against him. He merely avers the form of the present proceeding is illegal and unfair to his client.

Attorney-General Thayer spoke for forty-five minutes, reviewing the case, emphasizing the right of the people to protest by petition against public officials and citing reasons and precedent for the combining of petitions where all are precisely for the same purpose and are identical save for the signatures of the petitioners.

NOTICE TO BOY SCOUTS

With September should begin the regular meetings of the troops in our area on land and sea. This means work for the leaders. Get busy! New scoutmasters are now at work forming troops and the old troops must be the examples to these new tenderfeet. See that you yourself are forging ahead. This is a good way to help your patrol and the country.

JAMES A. WILDER
Scout Commissioner for Hawaii

Vefox Paper Best for Amateurs

Prints in any light and requires no darkroom for development.

HONOLULU PHOTO
SUPPLY COMPANY
Fort Street
"Everything Photographic"

"The Burning Sands of Egypt"

could not penetrate as will CLEOPATRA. The woman who reigned, conquered and then died by her own hand thru remorse over her duplicity to mankind.

FEATURING

HELEN GARDNER

AMERICA'S BERNHARDT

in the Romantic Idealization of the Character

CLEOPATRA

Wearing jewels, rare textures, Oriental weaves, valued in the thousands, as worn in Egypt in the 17th century. Over 1 mile of emotional, thrilling history—5000 feet.

Hawaii Theater

THREE SHOWS NIGHTLY. BOX OFFICE OPENS AT 6 P. M.

First show, 8:45 2d show, 8:15; 3d show, 9:30

GILDED YOUTH IS GIVEN FOUR- YEAR SENTENCE

(Continued from page one)

ling and arrests appeared to avail nothing.

McCandless, in company with a quartet of Hawaiian girls, is said to have fairly painted the town and the surrounding country a deep crimson during the past three days. The Japanese chauffeur who appears a heavy loser furnished much of the automobile transportation for round the island joy rides. The party were given clothing, silks and other articles as purchases at the Sacha store, payment for which was tendered in two checks afterward found to be fraudulent.

All the paper was drawn upon the First National Bank of Hawaii.

McCandless is declared by the police as some time ago having figured in a series of sensational escapades, one of which was his making a general canvass of many homes in Makiki district, at which time he glibly informed the women found present, that a sum of money awaited them at a local messenger office. When the occupants left their premises to secure the mythical fortune, McCandless it is alleged would enter the house for the purpose of ransacking it for valuables.

The young man is also credited with having conducted a similar expedition in Kaimuki, and in this instance it was a large rhinestone ring which was offered for sale to the unsuspecting householder.

McCandless was to have been examined some weeks ago as to his sanity. The question was brought up this morning in connection with the trial. There are some persons who have followed the rather erratic actions of the youth who profess to believe that he is irresponsible and also a degenerate.

In affixing the penalty, Judge Monarrat gave McCandless the minimum sentence on the eight counts. The maximum sentence calls for one year's imprisonment on each charge. May Not Be Entirely Responsible.

Young McCandless was not a pupil in the Honolulu School for Boys, according to Principal L. G. Blackburn of that institution. He had been attending it earlier in the year, but only on sufferance from month to month, and he was dropped at the end of last June. It was stated this morning.

"He was never a regular attendant of the school," said Mr. Blackburn this morning, "but was only given a trial. I do not believe the boy is quite normal, and it is a question if he is entirely responsible for his actions."

According to a statement made by Mrs. McCandless, mother of the unfortunate youth, arrangements have been made by his parents to have him examined in order to determine whether he is perfectly sane.

BANK OF HAWAII PAYS SALARIES FOR HONOLULU

The Bank of Hawaii was perhaps the busiest place in the city this morning. During the banking hours of that institution almost $20,000 was paid out on warrants for salaries of city and county officials and employees. Not having sufficient money on hand available to meet the monthly salary demands, Col. C. J. McCarthy, city and county treasurer, made special arrangements with the Bank of Hawaii and the Bishop Bank by which the two institutions have advanced the money to the county, the banks taking the registers and endorsed pay checks as security. All the warrants are being cashed at the Bank of Hawaii.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

A movement is on foot by the associated charities to establish an employment bureau as a follow-up of the recently organized social registration system. A meeting of all interested is to be called at an early date, at which time it is expected definite plans will be launched.

Mrs. Katie Lee, as storekeeper of Wahiawa, has been arrested by the federal authorities on a charge of operating a "blind pig" on the government reservation. She is to be given a preliminary hearing before the U. S. commissioner Tuesday.

The next steamer from Honolulu to the Orient will carry the promotion committee's first shipment of literature to Yokohama, Japan. It is the idea of the promotion organization in Japan which will reach every tourist and traveler who leaves that country for America via Honolulu.

The promotion committee is in receipt of the latest directories from San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego and Seattle. Another interesting publication, a complete directory of railroads and railroad officials, covering the entire world, has also been received.

Members of the local Japanese colony will close their stores and shops next Monday and give the day over to celebration, the occasion being an anniversary of the birthday of Emperor Yoshihito of Japan. The celebration will be observed by the Japanese throughout the territory.

C. G. Bockus purchased an eighth interest in a three-acre tract of land in Nuuanu valley this noon. The sale was made at public auction under the direction of the James F. Morgan Co., at the latter's rooms. Bockus was given the property on a $1,000 bid. With the acquisition of this eighth interest, the entire three acre tract is now the property of Bockus. He will offer two of the three acres for sale.

George W. Smith, an employee of the local postoffice, was placed under arrest by the U. S. marshal yesterday on a warrant charging him with robbing the department of a total of $240.65. The thefts are alleged to have covered a period of many months, taken from collections chiefly in small amounts. He probably will be given a preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

Eight conductors and motormen in the employ of the Honolulu Rapid Transit Company, who are said to have been under investigation for some time past on charges of alleged gambling, have been discharged from the company, within the last three days. It is said that an official of the company found several of the men shooting the festive natural on last Tuesday, shortly after which suspicions became facts and the men were let out.

LARGE LAND HOLDINGS IN MEXICO

Land holdings are concentrated to a greater degree in Mexico today than they were in France in 1789. Seven thousand families hold practically all the arable land. If the distribution were proportionately the same as it is in the United States, 1,000,000 Mexican families would be in possession of titles to landed property. In the state of Morelos, the center of the Zapatist revolt, twelve proprietors own nine-tenths of the farming property. In Chihuahua, the center of the agrarian revolution in the north, the Terrazas family holds nearly 20,000,000 acres, which comprise nearly all the tillable soil of that state. The greater portion of the state of Yucatan is held by thirty men, kings of aal hemp. The territory of Quintana Roo, which is double the size of Massachusetts, is divided among eight companies. When I visited Madero on January 27, he unfolded a map of Lower California showing the land gifts of General Diaz. That territory, equal in area to Alabama, had been sold in five vast tracts for about three-fifths of a cent an acre.

In the United States the farmer is a humble person; in Mexico he is a king of millionaires. The typical farm in Mexico is not of 160 acres, nor yet of 1600, but of 1,000,000. The Madero holdings in Coahuila run into the millions of acres. Nowhere in the world, not in India or Egypt nor any country, are found the vast cotton plantations that are discovered in the state of Durango.

In a news dispatch regarding the operations of the rebels, which recently appeared in the Mexican papers, it was casually mentioned that on one farm in the state of Puebla, the Atencio, the rebels had burned 2,000,000 pesos worth of sugar cane. If the crop standing in the field was worth 2,000,000 pesos, how much might the farm itself be worth?

Instead of showing a tendency to break up, this system has been steadily growing stronger. Always, since

Schofield Notes

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Aug. 30.—It is understood here that Second Lieutenant Joseph C. Hattie, 1st Infantry, and Second Lieutenant Charles Everett, 25th Infantry, have applied for a mutual transfer, and that the papers in the cases have gone to Department Headquarters, with the approval of the regimental commanders in each case.

Lieutenant Hattie is a brother-in-law of Major Edmund L. Butts, and his transfer to the 25th Infantry will doubtless bring him to the 1st battalion which Major Butts commands.

The Twenty-fifth Infantry will leave on Monday morning for its first regimental hike since the regiment has been in the new nation.

The practice march will bring it back to Schofield on the forenoon of the eighth day, and it will take the route marched by the Cavalry some weeks ago, only in the reverse direction, and will occupy the Cavalry camping places.

The regiment leaves here with two days' rations and forage, and draws further requirements at Honolulu, and at some point on the railroad. The first day's camp will be at Pearl City and the second in the vicinity of Honolulu. The march will be continued over the Paik, along the east and north coasts of the island, to Haleiwa, and return by the main road. Captains Hunt, Stuenkel and Wyzant, Lieutenants Whitner and Baird, and regimental commissary sergeant, are to remain in the post. For the several hundred recruits, the march will be the first taste of field service.

Captain John E. Hunt, who was severely injured in the accident to his automobile on the road to town some two weeks ago, is to leave for the states on leave of absence on the September transport. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hunt, and his sister, Miss Hunt, of Washington, D. C., who has been visiting her brother for the past two months.

Departing on the same transport are Lieut. and Mrs. Baird and their young daughter, who are to spend two months' leave at their home in Iowa. Lieut. Baird has recently been relieved from the position of Battalion Quartermaster and Commissary of the 2nd Battalion, 25th Infantry, and has been assigned to Company F.

HAWAIIAN NIGHT IS PLANNED FOR VISITORS

(Continued from page one)

of the islands to be used in an advertising campaign which he will carry on during his tour. His request was granted by the committee.

A special meeting of the committee has been called for Wednesday, September 3, at which time James D. Dougherty, director-general of the 1914 floral parade and mid-winter carnival, will present a complete report of his recent trip to the mainland, where he went to secure new ideas for next year's festival. Mr. Dougherty visited the larger cities of the west coast and south, where celebrations similar to the floral parade and carnival of Honolulu are held each year, and the report of his findings should be of marked interest.

BEER KILLS FISH

"Beer! Owing to a failure to pay the tax, says a recent newspaper dispatch, 3,081 barrels of beer of a defunct brewing company were poured out into the Mendota, Ill., river, resulting in the death of thousands of fish and detriment to farmers' stock along the river. The farmers are said to be up in arms and threatened vengeance on the city for allowing the beer to be poured into the river. Some people take more pains with their hops than they do with their boys. They allow moral poison to be brewed for human beings to drink. It brings business to the community. But when their cattle are injured by the same stuff poured into the river, it touches their most sensitive spot and they have an acute attack of purse-stringitis. If beer does this to fish, what will it do to men?—The Standard, August 2, 1913.

CREMATION NOW PROVES POPULAR

More than two-thirds of the bodies attended by the Oahu Cemetery Association last year were cremated, according to the annual report of business at the association's meeting yesterday. At this rate it will not be long before increased acreage for burial grounds will prove unnecessary.

Two hundred and five bodies were placed in the Association's care last year, thirty-nine more than in the previous year. The cost of labor last year reached $4306, though only $3,108.50 was received from lot owners and revenue from other sources was used to meet the deficiency.

This organization came into existence in 1845, when the original grant of land for cemetery purposes was made by the "Governor of Oahu," and the business and acreage has grown steadily since that time. The present trustees are F. J. Lowrey, P. A. Schaefer, J. H. Soper, H. M. Von Holt, S. G. Wilder, G. R. Carter, G. P. Wilder, Dr. A. B. Clark and J. R. Galt.

Fort Shafter Notes

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
FORT SHAFTER, Aug. 30.—As the 1st falls on Sunday this month, the commanding officer has ordered an informal muster. Each battalion commander will muster his own battalion and the commanding officer will muster the smaller units and auxiliary troops in front of headquarters at 8:00 a. m. The inspection of quarters was made this morning by Colonel French, commencing with the 2d battalion, in camp. Everything was aspic and span and dirt was an unknown quantity.

A short concert will be given by the 2nd Infantry band under the leadership of Chief Musician Jacobson tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, with the following program:

1. Prelude.....Rachmaninoff
2. Paraphrase, Melody in F.....Rubenstein
3. Canzon Amoroza.....Nevin

The informal hop to be given this evening at post headquarters will be something more than the ordinary post dance. There are to be an unusual number of out-of-town guests visiting at the post as well as many dinners and after-hop suppers. The bachelors will give a large affair in the quarters of Lieutenant Campanole after the dance, which will include nearly everyone.

Lieutenant Campanole has taken over the job of organizing a tennis club and proposes to give a "tennis tea" one evening each week at the courts.

NEW LIGHT ON COCOS TREASURE

[By Latest Mail]

LONDON. — Mrs. Bridget McGowan, a widow living in the west of Ireland, has written to a London newspaper that her husband was third officer of the Peruvian barque Mary Ple (Holy Mar), which conveyed the "Cocos Island treasure" from Lima to Cocos Island in 1855 in order to prevent it from falling into the hands of Chilean invaders.

New History of Treasure. This is the first time in the voluminous literature of the Cocos treasure question that some person has appeared who claims to have been acquainted personally with any member of the crew of the treasure ship. It also indicates an entirely new history of the treasure.

The accepted story of all the treasure hunters hitherto has been that the incident took place in 1825, when the Spanish colonies revolted from the mother country, and the Spanish loyalists, of Lima, in order to save their valuables from the invading Peruvian patriots, chartered a British ship called the Mary Ple to remove the treasure to Cocos Island.

Mr. McGowan declares that the Mary Ple, with a crew of thirty-six, conveyed the treasure to Cocos island and buried it in four caches.

One was the writer's husband; the other two, an Englishman and a Welshman, died afterward on the island from eating poisonous berries.

The third man survived and retained a map of the location of the four caches, in which five tons of gold were hidden.

His widow says that thirty years ago he gave the map to a man who is still living. She adds that an exact copy of that map is still extant and is well preserved.

In celebration of the birthday of Robert Morris, founder of the Order of Eastern Star, the local chapters of that order will unite in carrying out a musical and literary program in the Masonic Temple at half-past seven o'clock this evening. Members of the order and their families are invited to be present.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS

Entered of Record Aug. 29, 1913, from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.:
F. A. Schaefer and w. to Frances T. Bickerton (widow) ..... CM
Enpe Kagan to E. P. Low ..... CM
Waakele et al by Afft of Mtgee to Eben Low ..... ForcAffd
Waakele et al by Afft of Mtgee to Mary E Low ..... D
J F Resents and w. to May K Brown ..... D
May K Brown and hsb to J F Resents ..... M
Harry F Lewis by Tr to Harry F Katulani Home for Girls Ltd by Regr ..... Notice
Oliver G Lansing to A Hocking ..... D
Anna A Chamberlain and hsb to Ann Z Hadley ..... M
Antope Machado and w. to W G Rogers ..... M
Entered of Record Aug. 30, 1913, from 8:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m.:
James Hoapili and w. to M Pukushima ..... CM
Fugie Eguchi (w) to T Sakata ..... CM
Otomatsu Eguchi to Sueyichi Iri-guchi ..... CM
Joseph A Dias to Maria L Dias ..... BS
Manuel de Lima to Joe de Paiva ..... BS
Kellanae Keoki (k) to Ah Nui ..... CM
Totaro Sonoda to Riechi Jonishi ..... CM
Chuzo Suwa to Kakutaro Shimura ..... CM
Antone V Deluz and w. to Antone F Camacho ..... D
Antonio F Camacho to Manuel Mendes ..... M
Manuel Mendes and w. to Jose da Rocha ..... M
Jose da Rocha and w. to Aug S Costa ..... M
Yamamoto Jutaro to P C Beamer ..... M
W S Wise to First Bank of Hilo Ltd ..... M
Lee Ong Yan by Tr to Ick Sing Co ..... BS
Lee Leong to Ick Sing Co ..... BS
H F Lewis to Spreckels Tract ..... PL
Benjamin Morton to Chung Lung ..... L

Investigate

the various makes of clothing sold in this town and vicinity, and the chances are in favor of

Alfred Benjamin Clothes

There is something entirely different in these garments not found in other makes. We absolutely guarantee any suit or overcoat, leaving this house, to be perfect in every respect.

in fabric, fit and workmanship. We invite comparison.

The Clarion

PEEPING TOM IS DISCOVERED AT SCHOFIELD

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, August 30.—The "Peeping Tom" who for the past six weeks has warily pursued his operations along the officers' line of the Twenty-fifth Infantry commandment despite the efforts of sentries and officers' searching parties, has been captured at last. Private Leper of K Company, Twenty-fifth Infantry, a recruit of about three months' service, is now confined in the guard house here with the prospect of facing serious charges and a trial by general court-martial. Nearly every night at the retiring hour, which varies along the officers' line, a man has been known to be prowling about somewhere and often in several places in the course of the evening, peering in at the windows. Ladies of the regiment have raised their eyes to see a man's face at the window, boxes or flower tubs beneath sleeping room windows in the morning have been found with tell-tale footmarks upon them; members of the garrison have caught a glimpse of a man at a window as they returned from calling or some other social function, but in each case he seemed to vanish in a thin air and has eluded all efforts to capture him. On Tuesday evening, while several officers with pistols and flashlights were keeping a self-imposed vigil along the line, an officer, returning to his quarters from the club, discovered a man hiding in the shadows under the windows of another officer's house. The officer had approached so suddenly that escape was impossible and, in response to an inquiry as to who he was, the man gave his correct name but said he belonged to an organization other than his own and as the officer happened to command that company and he failed to recognize his captive, he inquired further and found that the man had removed his collar ornaments but had forgotten to discard his cap ornament and was identity was soon established. Upon investigation it was found that since he was not actually caught in the act of peering into the window, it would be difficult to prove this charge against him, so he was taken the next morning to the quarters of an officer where some peeper had visited the same evening of the capture and it was found that his foot exactly fitted over the fresh footprint on a box under the window. The raised surfaces on the heel of the print exactly fitted into similarly situated holes in the rubber heel of Private Leper's shoe and with this new evidence the case can be pressed and the line may retire without an audience in the future.